The aim in setting up the new company is to provide a high quality highways and transportation service to the development industry, local authority and private clients at a competitive fee.

The quality service is based on our extensive experience gained in both local authorities and engineering consultancies and the competitive fee from the lower overheads of an independent consultancy.

Advice

LvW Highways can provide advice to land owners, developers, residents, and planning / highway authorities on the transport implications of development and other proposals.

It can assist with complex projects such as large mixed use developments and also carry out smaller projects by providing access solutions or advice for small residential or commercial developments.

Client Contact

The two Directors will work very closely with clients and keep them informed about the key transportation issues during the progression of their projects.

It is considered essential that client needs are met and that we understand the often rapidly changing progression of development proposals.

The Directors have come from a Civil Engineering background and have specialised in transportation planning and assisting the development process for a total of 62 years.

A key benefit of the new company will be the large physical area of the South West of England and South & Mid Wales which can be served from the two offices in Carmarthen and Taunton.

The Directors have worked in both England and Wales and are conversant with the different planning systems in each Country.

In association with other specialist consultancies professional teams can be created to serve the full needs of the development industry.

Past Experience

Our past experience working within the highways development teams of local authorities will assist in the often protracted negotiations which can take place in the progression of planning applications.

In most cases negotiations at the appropriate time with local authority officers can head off potential objections and minimise their concerns over traffic impact.

Expert Witness

If applications are refused we can offer extensive experience of presenting traffic and highway evidence at public inquiries, planning appeals and hearings. Assistance can also be provided for written representation evidence. This form of expert evidence can be provided to developers, local authorities and for objector groups who may be opposing development proposals.

LvW Highways prides itself on understanding our client's objectives. We provide straight-forward high quality professional advice at reasonable rates and within agreed timescales.
